

Preface

The 2026 International Conference on Culture, Economy and Social Sciences (ICCESS 2026) is scheduled to take place from August 21 to 23, 2026, in Tokyo, Japan. As a prestigious interdisciplinary academic activity, the conference focuses on the integrated development of culture, economy and social sciences, aiming to adapt to global development trends and meet the growing demands for interdisciplinary academic research. It provides a professional and open international communication platform for global scholars, researchers, industry practitioners and policymakers to present latest research findings, share innovative academic ideas, and carry out in-depth discussions on the coordinated development of cultural construction, economic progress and social governance.

The conference covers a broad range of research fields, including cultural inheritance and innovative development, cultural industry development, regional economic cooperation, sustainable economic growth, modern social governance, public policy research, and interdisciplinary theoretical and practical exploration in humanities and social sciences.

Following the academic concepts of openness, inclusiveness and pragmatic innovation, ICCESS 2026 will arrange keynote speeches and thematic academic discussions, bringing together outstanding experts and researchers to analyze key difficulties and hot issues in current cultural development, economic transformation and social construction. By breaking the limitations of single disciplines and promoting the integration of diverse theories and practical experience, the conference commits itself to offering effective theoretical support and practical enlightenment for cultural prosperity, high-quality economic development and modern social governance, further driving disciplinary innovation and academic exchange in culture, economy and social sciences worldwide.

With my kindest regards,

The Organizing Committee of ICCESS 2026